

ensure that AFDC benefits are spent in a manner that achieves the goals of the Social Security Act, a number of states are experimenting with programs that direct the AFDC payment to the responsible adult, rather than to the minor mother. This strategy recognizes the importance of promoting general family responsibility.

Another strategy that has had success in Ohio and several other demonstration sites is setting up incentives and penalties for teen parents designed to have them stay in school. The recently completed study of Ohio LEAP found the program to be successful in increasing the rate at which teens who were already enrolled in school remained enrolled and in increasing the rate at which those who had already dropped out of school returned to high school or an equivalent program. Further testing of this type of strategy should enable us to determine whether these results can be replicated, and improved upon, in other settings and through variations in program design.

For these reasons, we are inviting demonstrations that require minor mothers to live with parents or relatives or in a supervised living situation, as long as the home is not dangerous to the physical or emotional health or safety of the minor; that direct the AFDC payment to the responsible adult, rather than to the minor mother; and that require minor mothers to stay in school and utilize reasonable sanctions and incentives tied to school attendance.

E. Paying the Cash Value of Welfare and Food Stamps to Private Employers as Wage Subsidies When They Hire People Who Leave Welfare and Go To Work

The effectiveness of subsidized employment in increasing employment, earnings, and self-sufficiency has been studied over the last 20 years. A number of rigorously evaluated programs have shown positive effects on increasing the earnings of welfare recipients who participated in them. This was also found to be true in the more recent national evaluation of the Job Training Partnership Act program.

By combining AFDC and Food Stamp benefits, a state could create a very substantial subsidy that encourages employers to hire AFDC recipients. This form of wage subsidy has the potential of increasing the number of recipients who are able to obtain unsubsidized employment.

Subsidized employment has generally been a very small scale activity within the JOBS program. Demonstrations using AFDC and Food Stamp benefits would provide important information on the ability of this approach, when applied on a larger scale, to increase the employment, earnings, and self-sufficiency of AFDC recipients. They also will provide important information regarding the degree to which employers respond to wage subsidies.

Therefore, we are inviting demonstrations of systems where AFDC and Food Stamps benefits become wages, paid by employers when recipients work, as long as the jobs meet minimum standards, and families receive at least as much total income as they would have from AFDC and Food Stamps. States can choose to ask employers to pay into an account to help the recipient make the transition into unsubsidized employment.

We are committed to a thorough and expeditious review of State requests to conduct such demonstrations.

II. Pending Proposal Received From Florida

Description: Would expand the Family Transition Program demonstration, currently operating in two counties, to six additional counties. disregards income of a stepparent whose needs are not included in the assistance unit for the first 6-months of receipt of public assistance; excludes summer earnings of teens and interest income; lowers age of child for JOBS exemption to 6-months; raises asset limit to $5,000 plus a vehicle of reasonable worth used primarily for self-sufficiency purposes; extends transitional Medicaid and child care benefits; eliminates 100-hour and required quarters of work rules, and (on a case-by-case basis) the 6-month time limit requirements in the AFDC-UP program; requires school conferences and regular school attendance; offers incentive payments to private employers who hire hard-to-place AFDC recipients; and allows non-custodial parents of AFDC children to participate in JOBS.
