

information on alternative fuels, contact the DOE National Alternative Fuels Hotline, 1-800-423-1DOE.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: There is a national shortage of qualified technicians to service alternative fuel vehicles. This has spurred the need for high-quality technical training programs with uniform national standards. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, jobs for automotive technicians will increase 37% from 1990 to 2005. In order to alleviate the shortage, and pursuant to section 411 of the Energy Policy Act of 1992 (Pub. L. 102-486), DOE entered into a cost shared cooperative agreement with the National Automotive Technician Education Foundation to develop training program standards and implement a certification process for a voluntary national program. This program is referred to as the Certification of Higher-learning in Alternative Fuels Program (CHAMP). An explanation of the certification process, including how to obtain a certification, will take place during a TeleVideo conference, "Alternative Fuel Vehicle Training: A Look At What's Coming Down The Road", scheduled for satellite broadcast Thursday, September 14, 1995, from 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. (Eastern Time). It is presented by West Virginia University (WVU), the National Automotive Technician Education Foundation (NATEF), and DOE.

The broadcast will be interactive featuring a panel of leading alternative fuels industry and training experts. On the day of the conference, the toll-free number for questions by all participants nationwide for on-the-air responses by the panelists will be 1-800-265-6104.

Issued in Washington, DC, on September 6, 1995.
