

The objectives of the program are to engage in advanced research and development with the intent of developing demonstrable technology for the manufacture of multichip module packaging via intelligent large area processing and transferring this technology to multichip module foundries, thereby allowing them to achieve lower manufacturing costs.

Notice Pursuant to the National Cooperative Research and Production Act of 1993—Diesel Particulate NO<sub>x</sub> Aftertreatment Using Plasma or Corona Discharges Cooperative Research Project

Notice is hereby given that, on July 24, 1995, pursuant to Section 6(a) of the National Cooperative Research and Production Act of 1993, 15 U.S.C. 4301, et seq. ("the Act"), Southwest Research Institute, ("SwRI"), on behalf of the Participants in the Diesel particulate/ NO<sub>x</sub> Aftertreatment Using Plasma or Corona Discharges Cooperative Research Project has filed written notifications simultaneously with the Attorney General and with the Federal Trade Commission disclosing (1) the identities of the parties to the Project, and (2) the nature and objectives of the venture. The notifications were filed for the purpose of invoking the Act's provisions limiting the recovery of antitrust plaintiffs to actual damages under specified circumstances. Pursuant to Section 6(b) of the Act, the identities of the current parties participating in the Cooperative Research Project are Caterpillar, Inc., Peoria, IL; Equipements et Composants pour L'Industrie Automobile, Valentigney, FRANCE; and Renault VI DITCM/DERM, Saint-Priest, FRANCE, together with its subsidiary, Mack Trucks, Inc., Hagerstown, MD.

The nature and objective of this cooperative research project is to investigate the feasibility of using plasma or corona discharge technologies as diesel exhaust aftertreatment devices through the screening of the present plasma or corona discharge technologies utilizing a diesel engine comparing the effects of the different technologies on the various type and concentrations of exhaust components such as particulates, NO<sub>x</sub>, THC and CO, of the velocity, production of unregulated emissions in the plasma and other safety related aspects associated with implementation of the technologies; theoretical modelling of the electrical and chemical processes and a scaled-up development of the most promising technologies on a heavy-duty diesel engine followed by a full-scale demonstration on a heavy-duty vehicle.

Participation in this Cooperative Research Project will remain open, and SwRI intends to file additional written notifications disclosing all changes in its membership or planned activities.

Information regarding participation in the Cooperative Research Project may be obtained from John W. McLeod, Southwest Research Institute, 6220 Culebra Road, Post Office Drawer 28510, San Antonio, TX 78228-0510.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Employment Standards Administration Wage and Hour Division; Minimum Wages for Federal and Federally Assisted Construction; General Wage Determination Decisions

General wage determination decisions of the Secretary of Labor are issued in accordance with applicable law and are based on the information obtained by the Department of Labor from its study of local wage conditions and data made available from other sources. They specify the basic hourly wage rates and fringe benefits which are determined to be prevailing for the described classes of laborers and mechanics employed on construction projects of a similar character and in the localities specified therein.

The determinations in these decisions of prevailing rates and fringe benefits have been made in accordance with 29 CFR Part 1, by authority of the Secretary of Labor pursuant to the provisions of the Davis-Bacon Act of March 3, 1931, as amended (46 Stat. 1494, as amended, 40 U.S.C. 276a) and of other Federal statutes referred to in 29 CFR Part 1, Appendix, as well as such additional statutes as may from time to time be enacted containing provisions for the payment of wages determined to be prevailing by the Secretary of Labor in accordance with the Davis-Bacon Act. The prevailing rates and fringe benefits determined in these decisions shall, in accordance with the provisions of the foregoing statutes, constitute the minimum wages payable on Federal and federally assisted construction projects to laborers and mechanics of the specified classes engaged on contract work of the character and in the localities described therein.

Good cause is hereby found for not utilizing notice and public comment procedure thereon prior to the issuance of these determinations as prescribed in 5 U.S.C. 553 and not providing for delay in the effective date as prescribed in that section, because the necessity to issue current construction industry wage determinations frequently and in large volume causes procedures to be impractical and contrary to the public interest.

General wage determination decisions, and modifications and supersedeas decisions thereto, contain no expiration dates and are effective from their date of notice in the Federal Register, or on the date written notice is received by the agency, whichever is earlier. These decisions are to be used in accordance with the provisions of 29 CFR Parts 1 and 5. Accordingly, the applicable decision, together with any modifications issued, must be made a part of every contract for performance of the described work within the geographic area indicated as required by an applicable Federal prevailing wage law and 29 CFR Part 5. The wage rates and fringe benefits, notice of which is published herein, and which are contained in the Government Printing Office (GPO) document entitled "General Wage Determinations Issued Under the Davis-Bacon and Related Acts," shall be the minimum paid by contractors and subcontractors to laborers and mechanics.

Any person, organization, or governmental agency having an interest in the rates determined as prevailing is encouraged to submit wage rate and fringe benefit information for consideration by the Department.

Further information and self-explanatory forms for the purpose of submitting this data may be obtained by writing to the U.S. Department of Labor, Employment Standards Administration, Wage and Hour Division, Division of Wage Determinations, 200 Constitution Avenue, NW., Room S-3014, Washington, DC 20210.
