Notice Pursuant to the National Cooperative Research and Production Act of 1993—Fuel Cell Cooperative Research Program

Notice is hereby given that, on March 24, 1997, pursuant to section 6(a) of the National Cooperative Research and Production Act of 1993, 15 U.S.C. 4301, et seq. ("the Act"), the participants in the Fuel Cell Cooperative Research Program have filed written notifications simultaneously with the Attorney General and with the Federal Trade Commission disclosing (1) the identities of the parties and (2) the nature and objectives of the venture. The notifications were filed for the purpose of invoking the Act's provisions limiting the recovery of antitrust plaintiffs to actual damages under specified circumstances. Pursuant to section 6(b) of the Act, the identities of the current participants in the Fuel Cell Cooperative Research Program are: Delphi Energy and Engine Management Systems Division of General Motors Corporation, Flint, MI; Arco Products Company, Anaheim, CA; and Exxon Research & Engineering Company, Florham Park, NJ.

In consideration of recent legislative and regulatory actions designed to reduce emissions from motor vehicles in order to improve air quality, the nature and objective of this joint research and development venture is to explore the option of using a fuel cell as an automotive power source. To help speed the research and reduce the expense in this area, the parties have agreed to establish a Fuel Cell Cooperative Research Program. Through the Program, the parties will plan and carry out research and tests designed to measure and evaluate the use of one or more liquid hydrocarbons as a hydrogen fuel source for an automotive fuel cell and develop a fuel processor technology required to utilize such liquid hydrocarbons to produce such hydrogen fuel. The parties plan to perform acts allowed by the National Cooperative Research and production Act that would advance these goals.

Information regarding participation in the Fuel Cell Cooperative Research Program may be obtained from Mr. Steven J. Cernak, Esq., General Motors Corporation, Detroit, MI 48232.
