

Samedan alleges that VGS' unlawful abandonment originated when VGS terminated Samedan's existing gathering agreement for 75,000 Dth of transportation service per day effective October 1, 1997. The Commission determined on April 1, 1997, that the Venice system is a jurisdictional pipeline in its order in Venice Gathering System, 79 FERC ¶61,037 (1997). Samedan also alleges that VGS has taken the position that it does not have an obligation under the Natural Gas Act to continue serving Samedan after October 1, 1997. Samedan states that VGS claims that as of October 1, 1997, all of Samedan's capacity on the lateral over which it ships its gas will be reallocated to other shippers, principally VGS' affiliate, Chevron, under an open-season held June 16-20, 1997, for the stated purpose of soliciting shipper interest in building new, incremental capacity on the lateral.

Samedan further alleges that VGS has never applied for or obtained authorization to abandon service to Samedan, and despite Samedan's express and continued demands, VGS has refused to acknowledge a continuing obligation under the Natural Gas Act to transport Samedan's gas on or October 1, 1997. Samedan, therefore, alleges that VGS' actions constitute an unlawful abandonment in violation of section 7(b) of the Natural Gas Act.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make a protest with reference to Samedan's complaint should file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 888 First Street, NE., Washington, DC 20426, a motion to intervene or protest in accordance with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 385.211 or 385.214). All such motions should be filed on or before September 22, 1997. VGS is directed to file its answer to this complaint no later than the close of business September 19, 1997. Any person desiring to become a party must file a motion to intervene. Copies of this filing are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.
