2. Overview of QAS regulations
3. Overview of requirements of the registrar accreditation bodies and registrars
4. Overview of the requirements of the QAS manufacturing facilities requiring registration
5. Discussion/answers to questions sent to NIST by participants by June 5, 1998
6. Closing

Following issuance of the final regulations on September 26, 1996, the automobile industry expressed concern to the Department of Commerce (Department) that the Act and the implementing regulations did not recognize modern manufacturing methods using prevention-based QAS employing statistical process controls (SPC). On February 4, 1997, a public workshop was held at NIST to solicit information from all interested parties. The Department published a notice of proposed rule making in the Federal Register on September 8, 1997, seeking public comments on proposed amendments to the regulations that recognize the use of prevention-based QAS under the FQA. The final rule published on April 14, 1998, is based on comments received in response to the notice of proposed rulemaking published in the Federal Register on September 8, 1997, (62 FR 47240-47260)(1997) amending regulations found at 15 CFR Part 280 implementing the FQA. This final rule established the procedures for registration of in-process inspection activities of qualifying manufacturing facilities that use QAS, revised definitions and related sections for clarity, and corrected editorial errors. These changes will facilitate the implementation of the Act and will better accommodate modern industry practices by incorporating these practices into the certification process of fasteners covered by the Act.

The purpose of the meeting is to address issues relevant to the implementation of the final regulations specific to QAS and provide a forum for discussion of questions on QAS. To facilitate coverage of issues raised by the participants, NIST is requesting that all questions be sent to NIST by June 5, 1998. Every attempt will be made to address these questions at the meeting. Other questions not related to QAS may be sent, and if time permits, these questions will also be addressed.
