

community, we will review and negotiate with the local jurisdiction to determine whether the proposed activities would: (1) Reduce the likelihood of future disaster costs under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, and (2) help sustain the community's momentum in broad-based mitigation efforts. We describe activities that the community may pursue in the previous section entitled "What are mitigation measures."

A State with a Project Impact community must agree to use the funds in direct support of the Project Impact community and to convene statewide support for comprehensive hazard mitigation. For example, a State may use the FEMA funding to support Project Impact communities:

- To fund State activities in direct support of Project Impact communities such as travel, costs associated with logistics and meetings, and staff support;
- To fund State travel costs to FEMA Project Impact meetings;
- To fund training of State officials supporting Project Impact;
- To provide mini-grants to Project Impact communities to augment or expedite Project Impact activities;
- To fund travel of local community officials to other communities, state meetings or national conferences at State request to share Project Impact information;
- To fund State costs in information development and dissemination in support of Project Impact;
- To fund development of training packages for State and local officials;
- To fund expert, short-term technical assistance support to Project Impact communities.

Dated: February 4, 1999.

Michael J. Armstrong,

Associate Director, Mitigation Directorate.
