Guidance Documents for Dioxin and Dioxin-like Compounds and Other Persistent Bioaccumulative Toxic (PBT) Chemicals; Community Right-to-Know Toxic Chemical Release ReportingAGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).ACTION: Notice of availability; request for comments and request for workgroup members.

SUMMARY: EPA is announcing the availability of a draft guidance document for the dioxin and dioxin-like compounds category which is subject to reporting under section 313 of the Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act of 1986 (EPCRA) and section 6607 of the Pollution Prevention Act of 1990 (PPA). The category of dioxin and dioxin-like compounds was added to the EPCRA section 313 list of toxic chemicals as part of a final rule that lowered the reporting thresholds for certain persistent bioaccumulative toxic (PBT) chemicals. EPA is requesting comments on this draft guidance document and is also requesting the participation of interested stakeholders on a workgroup to assist in the preparation of the final guidance document. In addition, EPA is considering establishing another workgroup or workgroups to assist in the development of guidance documents for other PBT chemicals that are subject to the new reporting requirements under the October 29, 1999 final rule. EPA would like to know whether interested stakeholders wish to participate on such workgroups.

DATES: Written comments, identified by the docket control number OEI-100000, must be received by EPA on or before July 17, 2000.

ADDRESSES: Comments may be submitted by mail, electronically, or in person. Please follow the detailed instructions for each method as provided in Unit I. of the SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION section of this document.

II. Background Information

A. What is the Purpose of this Notice?

The purpose of this notice is to make available for comment a draft document titled "Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act—Section 313: Guidance for Reporting for the Dioxin and Dioxin-like Compounds Category." The category of dioxin and dioxin-like compounds was added to the EPCRA section 313 list of toxic chemicals as part of a final rule that lowered the reporting thresholds for certain PBT chemicals (64 FR 58666, October 29, 1999) (FRL-6389-11). EPA would like to receive comments on the technical contents of the guidance document particularly on the methods of estimating releases and other waste management quantities for dioxin and dioxin-like compounds. Unit I.B. contains information on how to get copies of the draft guidance document. Through this notice EPA is also requesting the participation of interested stakeholders on a workgroup to assist in the preparation of the final guidance document for the dioxin and dioxin-like compounds category. Stakeholders interested in participating on the workgroup should contact the person identified in the "FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT" section by July 17, 2000. Whether or not you participate on the workgroup, your comments will be considered in preparing the final guidance document.

In addition, this notice also requests comments on whether interested stakeholders wish to participate on a workgroup to develop guidance documents for the other PBT chemicals. These other guidance documents would cover the following chemicals: aldrin, chlordane, heptachlor, hexachlorobenzene, isodrin, mercury, mercury compounds, methoxychlor, octachlorostyrene, pendimethalin, pentachlorobenzene, polychlorinated biphenyls, polycyclic aromatic compounds (PACs), tetrabromobisphenol A, toxaphene, and trifuralin. At this point EPA anticipates developing individual guidance documents for the PACs category and for mercury/mercury compounds and another guidance document to cover the other PBT chemicals. Whether or not workgroups are formed for these other guidance documents, EPA will issue drafts of the guidance documents for public review and comment. If you are interested in participating on a workgroup for the development of these other guidance documents, please contact the person identified in the "FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT" section by July 17, 2000.

B. How Will the Interested Stakeholder Workgroups Function?

All interested parties are welcome to participate on the workgroups. The workgroups will not revisit any issues raised during the rulemaking process or the determinations contained in the final rule. The workgroups will deal only with guidance on how to report given the requirements of the final rule. The workgroups will make recommendations on the contents of the guidance documents, and then EPA will issue draft final documents and provide them to interested stakeholders for final comment. EPA will then review the final comments and issue the final guidance documents. The workgroup for the dioxin and dioxin-like compounds category will be formed and have its first meeting after the end of the comment period for this notice to allow time for the processing of any comments received. Whether or not workgroups are formed to develop guidance documents for the other PBT chemicals, a separate Federal Register notice will be issued to obtain comments on the other PBT chemical draft guidance documents. This type of process for developing guidance documents is similar to the processes that EPA has used for the development of guidance documents for other regulations.
