

lightly shaded, or moderately shaded discolorations, blood clots, or incomplete bleeding will be allowed. Current standards do not indicate the dimensions for discolorations making the grade establishment of rabbit carcasses and parts more difficult.

With respect to U.S. Grade C-quality standards for poultry, AMS proposes to add subject headings and text for poultry conformation, fleshing, fat covering, defeathering, exposed flesh, discolorations, trimming, and freezing defects to clearly define and coincide with the requirements printed in the Grade C-quality table. These additions are consistent with the current written format for U.S. Grades A-and B-quality poultry and impose no new requirements to industry.

Other miscellaneous changes are proposed to remove obsolete material, clarify, simplify, and technically correct the standards. These changes to the rabbit and poultry standards impose no new requirements.
