

cruise ship entries for the following season (June 1–August 31). This determination will be based upon available science and other information and applicable authorities.” Pursuant to the foregoing, on October 17, 2005, the NPS announced that the seasonal cruise ship use-day quota, for the 92-day summer operating season in 2006 would remain at 139, but proposed an increase in the seasonal use-day quota by 10% to 153 cruise ship use-days for the 2007 operating season.

The decision to retain the 139 cruise ship use-day quotas for the 2006 summer operating season and the proposed 10% increase to 153 cruise ship use-day quotas for the 2007 summer operating season was published in the Federal Register on January 19, 2006. The 30-day public comment period ended on February 21, 2006. The NPS received 1,020 written comments, however; no new science or other information was received which would cause NPS to modify the proposed 10% increase (14 additional cruise ship use days, from 139 to 153 cruise ship use days) for the 2007 summer operating season. The year-round daily quota for cruise ships remaining at two per day in accordance with both the ROD and existing regulations.

The decision to increase cruise ship use-days is a result of guidance provided through extensive public planning efforts resulting in the VQOR EIS ROD, reviews of the best available scientific information collected both by the National Park Service and by scientists independent of the agency, recommendations from the Glacier Bay National Park Science Advisory Board (SAB), and an assessment of that report provided by the NPS Alaska Regional Science Advisor.

Dated: April 3, 2006.
