SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a draft guidance for sponsor-investigators entitled "IND Submissions for Individualized Antisense Oligonucleotide Drug Products for Severely Debilitating or Life-Threatening Diseases: Clinical Recommendations." FDA is publishing this draft guidance to provide sponsor-investigators (hereafter referred to as sponsors) who are interested in developing individualized ASO drug products for a rapidly progressive SDLT genetic disease (caused by a unique genetic variant or variants), with clinical recommendations for submission of INDs. These recommendations specifically address the following clinical considerations: Ethical and human subject protection, diagnostic and genetic, dosing, administration, safety, and assessment of clinical response to treatment.

This draft guidance describes clinical considerations and, when applicable, important information to include in IND submissions for such ASO drug products for a small number of participants (typically one to two) with SDLT diseases. In general, ASO drug products referred to in this draft guidance belong to a well-characterized chemical class and for which there is considerable nonclinical and clinical experience that is publicly available or to which the sponsor has a right of reference. The draft guidance discusses considerations and information to submit in an IND regarding: (1) Confirmation of the participant's genetic diagnosis and genetic variant(s) targeted by the ASO drug product, (2) the requirements and procedures for informed consent of the participant, (3) appropriate and safe dosing and administration procedures that are detailed and supported by relevant nonclinical evidence, (4) the nature and schedule of the specific safety assessments (adverse events and laboratory testing) to be conducted, and (5) methods for continuous clinical monitoring (e.g., via clinical outcome assessments, pharmacodynamic biomarkers) of the participant to evaluate and document their clinical response(s) and to allow for an informed benefit-risk determination. This draft guidance is expected to facilitate the preparation of adequate and complete IND submissions for investigational ASO drug products for participants with SDLT diseases targeted by the specified ASO drug product.

This draft guidance represents one guidance in a series of guidances that FDA intends to publish to advise and help sponsors planning to use individualized ASO drug products for SDLT diseases caused by unique genetic variant(s) and for whom there are no alternative therapies available to treat their disease.

This draft guidance is being issued consistent with FDA's good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The draft guidance, when finalized, will represent the current thinking of FDA on "IND Submissions for Individualized Antisense Oligonucleotide Drug Products for Severely Debilitating or Life-Threatening Diseases: Clinical Recommendations." It does not establish any rights for any person and is not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.

II. Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

While this guidance contains no new collection of information, it does refer to previously approved FDA collections of information. Therefore, clearance by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (PRA) (44 U.S.C. 3501-3521) is not required for this guidance.
