History and Description of the Remains

At an unknown date in the 1970s or 1980s, human remains representing, at minimum, one individual were removed from an unknown location on Anacapa Island in Ventura County, CA. An unknown individual illegally collected a human cranium and mandible and transferred them to Dr. Donald Weissman DDS, a member of the faculty of the UCLA School of Dentistry, Dental Radiology Department, in the 1970s and 1980s, for use as a teaching demonstration. The human remains were donated by the professor's son, Dr. Albert Weissman, DDS, MSD, to the Fowler Museum at the University of California Los Angeles in 2017. Based on osteological analysis by specialists at the Fowler Museum, the human remains were identified as Native American and appear to be those of a young adult female. No known individual was identified. No associated funerary objects are present.

Anacapa Island is 2.9 km² and has 27 known archeological sites, all of which are considered associated with the Chumash based on historic records, ethnographic place names, and material culture.
