II. Discussion

The NRC Office of Nuclear Regulatory Research (RES) is advancing the understanding and state-of-practice for modeling High Energy Arcing Faults (HEAF) in fire Probabilistic Risk Assessment (PRA). One important aspect of this research is the ability to reliably predict the HEAF hazard for various scenarios important for nuclear safety. The high intensity and short duration of a HEAF has not been explicitly modeled in past fire PRA methodologies. As such, there was a need to advance HEAF modeling capabilities to reliably predict the scenario specific HEAF hazards to support refinements to the zones of influence (ZOI) used in fire PRA. The NRC worked with its collaborative research partners to develop two models to predict the HEAF hazard.

In the report titled, "Predicting High Energy Arcing Fault Zones of Influence for Aluminum Using a Modified Arc Flash Model, Evaluation of a modified model bias, uncertainty, parameter sensitivity and zone of influence estimation, Draft for public comment," the NRC worked with Sandia National Laboratories to evaluate an existing base model and nuclear power plant fire PRA scenarios were identified. Modification of the base model established from existing literature and test data was used to minimize these differences. The modified model was evaluated against NRC datasets to understand the model prediction and relative uncertainties. Finally, a range of fire PRA ZOIs were developed based on the modified model and draft update HEAF PRA methodology. The results are expected to be used to inform an update to ZOIs used in fire PRA.

In the report titled, "Determining the Zone of Influence for High Energy Arcing Faults using Fire Dynamics Simulator, Draft for public comment," the NRC worked with the Electric Power Research Institute and the National Institute of Standards and Technology to adapt a computational fluid dynamic code known as the Fire Dynamics Simulator (FDS) to predict the HEAF hazard. This report documents (1) the development of the approach to use FDS to predict thermal exposures to targets from a HEAF, (2) validation of the model and (3) application of the model to estimate HEAF ZOI for a broad range of fire PRA HEAF scenarios.

The draft research information letter reports present the NRC-RES/Sandia National Laboratories (SNL) and NRC-RES/Electric Research Power Institute (EPRI) working groups efforts to predict realistic HEAF hazards. The two approaches to model HEAF hazards present complementary but diverse methods to estimating the hazard ZOI. For most scenarios the two approaches provide results that are consistent with each other. The NRC-SNL report can be viewed as a first order approximation providing a single value scenario specific ZOI estimate, while the NRC-RES/EPRI report provides additional geometric detail to the ZOI estimate.

- IV. Ordering Paragraphs

I. Introduction

On May 6, 2022, the Postal Service filed a notice of minor corrections to the International Money Transfer Service (IMTS)—Inbound product description in the Mail Classification Schedule (MCS) pursuant to 39 CFR 3040.190(b).¹ The Postal Service seeks to remove certain countries from the list of countries in MCS subsection 2625.2 consistent with certain Postal Bulletin notices. Notice at 1. The changes are intended to take effect on two dates: When this docket is concluded and on October 1, 2022. Id. at 2.

II. Summary of Changes

The Postal Service proposes two corrections to MCS section 2625.2, which lists the countries where IMTS—Inbound is offered. First, it requests that the Commission remove Japan from the list of countries when this docket is concluded because the Postal Service terminated the exchange of international postal money orders with Japan Post. Id. Second, the Postal Service proposes to remove the Bahamas, Barbados, British Virgin Islands, Dominica, Montserrat, St. Kitts, and St. Vincent from the list of countries effective October 1, 2022, because it will stop cashing international postal money orders issued by the postal operators of those countries. Id. The Postal Service asserts that the Notice satisfies the requirements of 39 CFR 3040.190(c) because the proposed corrections are consistent with applicable authorities and do not constitute material changes to the IMTS-Inbound product description. Id. The Notice includes a copy of the affected sections of the MCS with the proposed changes in legislative format, which the Postal Service contends satisfies 39 CFR 3040.190(c)(3). Id. Attachment—Mail Classification Schedule.

III. Notice of Commission Action
