SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

A. Purpose

The GSA “Equity Study on Remote Identity Proofing” will assess the impact of demographic factors on both biometric and non-biometric proofing checks. Using the NIST SP 800–63–3 Identity Assurance Level 2 (IAL2) standard as a framework, GSA will test how remote identity-proofing methods like facial verification technology perform across various demographic groups. To conduct this study, GSA is working with vendors that are compatible with the study architecture and can meet agency compliance requirements.

GSA will release the study’s results in a peer-reviewed publication. The report will present a statistical analysis of failures and successes for the proofing checks and explore the causes behind negative or inconclusive results. These results will help GSA understand the current technological barriers to equitable identity-proofing services for the public.

GSA will be partnering with a recruitment agency to engage the general American public to participate in the study. Participants will be asked to share demographic information to help GSA understand if and how these variables impact the performance of various remote identity-proofing solutions; GSA will collect the participant’s race, ethnicity, gender, age, income, educational level, and other demographic data.

The identity-proofing workflow will also collect the following personally identifiable information (PII): a picture of the participants’ State ID Card (including name, date of birth, physical address, and document number), Social Security Number, phone number, and a picture of the participant’s face.

Identity-proofing vendors will delete all participant data from their systems within 24 hours of collection. GSA will retain PII data until the study is published in a peer-reviewed publication.

Furthermore, while participants are using the study’s web-based platform, GSA will collect the personal mobile device hardware and software data as well as device-behavioral information (how the device and its applications are used).

GSA will share anonymized demographic information, identity-proofing results, and PII data with an academic partner that will analyze the results and assist GSA in publishing a peer-reviewable report.

Finally, upon completion of the workflows, participants will be asked to complete an exit survey that gathers feedback on their overall experience with the study.

Selected participants will be compensated for their participation in this study.

B. Annual Reporting Burden
