

Commission's flexibility in granting exemptions that allow manufacturers to adapt the labels and, in several instances, to provide additional information to consumers. I also support the granting of this exemption. I continue to question, however, whether the highly prescriptive requirements in this Rule are needed to satisfy the PMPA's mandate to establish a uniform method of displaying fuel ratings. As I noted in my prior Concurring Statement, relaxation of the prescriptive requirements in the Commission's Rule potentially could obviate the need for repeated exemption petitions, which call to mind the familiar children's game of "Mother May I." Much has been said about permissionless innovation in the context of high-tech companies,⁶ but its benefits apply in this context, as well. For example, companies may have additional ideas about how to make labels more user-friendly but may choose to forgo acting on those initiatives due to the time and expense required to seek government approval, chilling beneficial innovation.

I again encourage the Commission to consider ways to streamline the Rule's prescriptive requirements, facilitating the conveyance of information to consumers uniformly while giving greater flexibility to manufacturers.⁷

Analysis of Agreement Containing Consent Orders To Aid Public Comment

I. Introduction

The Federal Trade Commission ("Commission") has accepted, subject to final approval, an Agreement Containing Consent Orders ("Consent Agreement") to be put on the public record for comment. The Consent Agreement is with Tractor Supply Company ("Tractor Supply") and Orscheln Farm and Home LLC ("Orscheln") (collectively, the "Respondents"). The proposed Decision and Order ("D&O"), included in the Consent Agreement and subject to final Commission approval, is designed to remedy the anticompetitive effects that would result from Tractor Supply's proposed acquisition of Orscheln.

On February 17, 2021, Tractor Supply and Orscheln entered into an agreement whereby Tractor Supply would acquire Orscheln for approximately $320 million ("the Proposed Transaction"). The Commission's Complaint alleges that the Proposed Transaction, if consummated, would violate Section 7 of the Clayton Act, as amended, 15 U.S.C. 18, and Section 5 of the FTC Act, as amended, 15 U.S.C. 45, by removing a direct and substantial farm store competitor in 84 relevant markets. The elimination of this competition would result in significant competitive harm; specifically, absent a remedy, the Proposed Transaction would allow the combined entity to increase prices above competitive levels unilaterally. Similarly, absent a remedy, there is significant risk that the combined entity may decrease quality, selection, and service aspects of its stores below competitive levels in the relevant markets.

The Consent Agreement, which contains the proposed D&O and Order to Maintain Assets, would remedy the alleged violations by requiring divestitures to replace competition that otherwise would be lost in the relevant markets because of the Proposed Transaction. Under the terms of the proposed D&O, Respondents are required to divest 84 stores and related assets in 84 local geographic markets (collectively, the "relevant markets") in 10 states (Arkansas, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma, and Texas) to the Commission-approved buyers, Bomgaars Supply, Inc. ("Bomgaars") and Buchheit Enterprises, Inc. ("Buchheit"). The Commission and Respondents have agreed to an Order to Maintain Assets that requires Respondents to operate and maintain each divestiture store in the normal course of business through the date the store is ultimately divested to Bomgaars and Buchheit.

The Consent Agreement with the proposed D&O and the Order to Maintain Assets has been placed on the public record for 30 days for receipt of comments from interested persons. Comments received during this period will become part of the public record. After 30 days, the Commission will review the D&O as well as any comments received, and decide whether it should withdraw, modify, or make the D&O final. The Commission is issuing the Order to Maintain Assets when the Consent Agreement is placed on the public record.

II. The Respondents

Respondent Tractor Supply operates over 2,000 farm stores, with stores located in every state except Alaska. Tractor Supply is the largest farm store chain, by store count, in the United States. Respondent Orscheln operates 166 farm stores under the Orscheln Farm & Home banner in Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma, and Texas. Orscheln is the second largest farm store chain, by store count, in the United States.

III. Competition in the Relevant Markets

The Proposed Transaction presents substantial antitrust concerns for the products sold and services provided at brick-and-mortar farm stores. Farm stores offer their customers a broad, in-store assortment of products across multiple product categories to meet their farming, ranching, or other rural lifestyle needs, along with staff knowledgeable about the products. Farm stores sell a wide range of products, including, but not limited to, large animal and pet feed; supplies to care for horses, other livestock, and pets; fencing; equipment and tools used for farm or lawn and garden maintenance; workwear; and home goods. This broad product mix enables customers to purchase products to meet substantially all their farm or rural lifestyle needs and to receive accompanying service from knowledgeable employees at a single store. The brick-and-mortar shopping environment also provides customers with the ability to touch and feel products before buying them, and in-person access to knowledgeable sales staff. The ability to offer consumers this in-person, one-stop shopping experience is a key difference between farm stores and other retailers.

Other types of brick-and-mortar retailers are not reasonable substitutes for farm stores. Retail stores other than farm stores, including big box general merchandisers, grocery stores, pet stores, and home improvement stores may sell some of the same products as farm stores, but they do not carry the same breadth and variety of rural lifestyle products as farm stores. Such retailers typically lack the breadth of rural lifestyle products that enables farm stores to meet substantially all their customers' rural lifestyle needs in one convenient stop.

Online retailers also are not reasonable substitutes for brick-and-mortar farm stores. Online retailers cannot provide their customers the ability to touch and feel products prior to purchase, nor can they offer in-person access to knowledgeable sales staff to learn about products best suited for their rural lifestyle needs. Additionally, online retailers require time to deliver their products to their customers, while farm stores provide their customers with immediate access to products that meet essential or immediate needs, such as animal feed when a customer runs out or components to fix broken farm equipment. Furthermore, many products sold at farm stores are not conducive to selling online, as they are large and heavy, and therefore impractical or expensive to ship.

The relevant geographic markets in which to analyze the effects of the Proposed Transaction are the areas within a reasonable drive of Orscheln's stores listed in Exhibit A, as these are areas in which Respondents' farm stores compete. When choosing between farm store competitors, a customer is typically choosing between farm stores within a reasonable driving distance of the customer's farm or home. The area within a reasonable drive of a farm store varies depending on a store's location, geography, population density, traffic conditions, and other local characteristics. While individual markets may be significantly smaller, typically no relevant geographic market is broader than the area within a 60-mile drive of the stores.

The Proposed Transaction would eliminate direct and substantial competition between Respondents Tractor Supply and Orscheln to the detriment of their customers in the relevant markets. Respondents are close competitors and focus on the same types of customers. They compete on price and non-price factors, such as customer service and product selection, resulting in lower prices and other benefits to their customers. With this head-to-head competition removed, the Proposed Transaction would enable the combined entity to increase prices and decrease the quality and selection of products and services at their farm stores in the relevant markets.

Entry into the relevant markets that is timely and sufficient to prevent or counteract the expected anticompetitive effects of the Proposed Transaction is unlikely to occur. Entry barriers include the time and costs associated with conducting necessary market research, selecting an appropriate location for a farm store, obtaining necessary permits and approvals, constructing a new farm store or converting an existing structure to a farm store, and generating sufficient sales to have a meaningful impact on the market. As a result, new entry sufficient to achieve a significant market impact and act as a competitive constraint is unlikely to occur in a timely manner.

IV. The Proposed Order and the Order To Maintain Assets

The proposed D&O and the Order to Maintain Assets effectively remedy the likely anticompetitive effects in the relevant markets. The proposed D&O, which requires the divestiture of Orscheln stores in each of the 84 relevant markets to Commission-approved, upfront buyers, will restore competition that otherwise would be eliminated in these markets because of the Proposed Transaction. The proposed buyers, Buchheit and Bomgaars, appear to be suitable purchasers well-positioned to enter the relevant markets through the divested stores and prevent competitive harm that would otherwise likely result from the Potential Transaction.

The proposed D&O requires Respondents to divest 12 stores, as ongoing businesses, and related assets to Buchheit within 10 days of Respondents consummating the Proposed Transaction. For up to six months afterwards Respondents will provide transitional assistance to Buchheit to ensure that Buchheit can operate the stores similarly to how the stores were operated prior to the Proposed Transaction.

Buchheit appears to be a suitable purchaser for the 12 divestiture stores it intends to acquire. Buchheit is a family-owned company that has operated retail stores since the 1930s. It currently operates eight farm stores in Missouri and Illinois and has over 650 employees. Buchheit also operates a warehousing and shipping service through Buchheit Logistics and a feed and fertilizer manufacturer through Buchheit Agriculture. Buchheit has sufficient financing to fund the acquisition and operate the newly acquired stores. Buchheit also appears to have sufficient distribution and supply capabilities for both the newly acquired stores and its currently operated stores.

The proposed D&O further requires Respondents to divest 72 stores, as ongoing businesses, and related assets to Bomgaars within 10 days of Respondents consummating the Proposed Transaction. For up to 15 months afterwards Respondents will provide transitional assistance to Bomgaars to ensure that Bomgaars can operate the stores similarly to how the stores were operated prior to the Proposed Transaction.

The proposed D&O also requires that the Respondents divest Orscheln's distribution center in Moberly, Missouri to Bomgaars. The Orscheln stores that Tractor Supply will be acquiring and keeping currently utilize the Moberly distribution center. The proposed D&O requires Tractor Supply to transition these Orscheln stores out of the Moberly distribution center and to permanently cease reliance on the Moberly distribution center no later than December 31, 2023. Bomgaars will take ownership of the distribution center within ten days thereafter.

Bomgaars appears to be a suitable purchaser for the 72 divestiture stores it intends to acquire and for Orscheln's distribution center in Moberly, Missouri. Bomgaars is a family-owned farm store operator with over 70 years of experience running farm stores in the Midwest. Bomgaars has over 100 farm stores located throughout eight midwestern states and approximately 3,000 employees. Bomgaars has sufficient financing to fund the acquisition and operate the newly acquired stores and distribution center. Also, with the addition of the divested distribution center, Bomgaars appears to have sufficient distribution and supply capabilities for both the newly acquired stores and its currently operated stores.

The proposed D&O contains additional provisions designed to ensure the adequacy of the proposed relief. For example, the proposed D&O and the Order to Maintain Assets require Respondents to continue operating and maintaining the divestiture stores in the normal course of business until the date that each store is sold to the buyer. If, at any time before the proposed D&O is made final, the Commission determines that Bomgaars or Buchheit is not an acceptable buyer, Respondents must rescind the divestiture(s) and divest the assets to a different buyer that receives the Commission's prior approval. The proposed D&O imposes other terms, including the obligation to provide Transition Assistance and an obligation to facilitate the buyers interviewing and hiring employees.

Moreover, the proposed D&O sets a strict timeline by which the Respondents must separate the retained Orscheln stores from the Moberly distribution center, requiring separating 12 by April 30, 2023, 40 by July 31, 2023, 60 by October 31, 2023, and the remaining stores by December 31, 2023. Additionally, the proposed D&O includes some newer provisions to ensure its effectiveness, including provisions that appoint a Transition Manager for each buyer, who will be responsible for directing the provision of Transitional Assistance to that buyer, require physical separation of the employees providing assistance to each buyer, and increase the frequency of compliance reporting.

The proposed D&O also requires the appointment of Larry Appel as an independent Monitor to oversee the Respondents' compliance with the requirements of the proposed D&O and the Order to Maintain Assets, and to keep the Commission informed about the status of the transfer of the divested assets. Additionally, the proposed D&O requires the Respondents to receive the Commission's prior approval, for a period of 10 years, to acquire any interest in a farm store that has operated or is operating within a 60-mile radius of a divested store. Finally, the proposed D&O also prohibits the Respondents from entering into or enforcing agreements to restrict a new owner from operating a farm store at any store Respondents may sell in these areas.

The proposed D&O also contains a ten-year prior approval provision relating to the buyers, which prohibits them from selling acquired stores for a period of three years after the proposed

D&O is issued, except to an acquirer that receives the prior approval of the Commission. The initial three-year period is followed by an additional seven-year period during which the buyers are required to receive prior approval from the Commission to sell an acquired store to a buyer that operates one or more farm stores within a 60-mile radius of a divested store the respective buyer acquired.

Proposed Project

“The Systematic Review Data Repository (SRDR) Platform”

Since 1997, the AHRQ Evidence-based Practice Center (EPC) Program has been reviewing relevant scientific information on a wide spectrum of clinical and health services topics to produce various types of evidence reports. A majority of these evidence reports are systematic reviews (SRs), which are used as evidence bases for clinical practice guidelines, research agendas, healthcare coverage, and other health related policies. Performing SRs is costly in time, labor, and money. Moreover, there is an increasing expectation of quicker turnaround in producing SRs to accommodate the fast moving pace of innovations and new scientific discoveries in healthcare. Some SRs overlap or are duplicated; independent teams of SR producers often extract data from the same studies, resulting in replication of work. Current methodology makes it difficult to harness and reuse previous work when updating SRs.

In an effort to reduce the economic burden of conducting SRs, the EPC program undertook development of a collaborative, Web-based repository of systematic review data called the Systematic Review Data Repository (SRDR). The OMB Control Number for this data collection is 0935-0244, which was last approved by OMB on October 16, 2019.

This resource serves as both an archive and data extraction tool, shared among organizations and individuals producing SRs worldwide, enabling the creation of a central database of SR data. This database is collaboratively vetted, freely accessible, and integrates seamlessly with reviewers’ existing workflows, with the ultimate goal of facilitating the efficient generation and update of evidence reviews, and thus speeding and improving evidence-based policy-making with regards to health care.

Note that the SRDR system was upgraded during the last period of OMB clearance and is now designated as SRDR+. We will use the term “SRDR platform” to collectively denote the
