SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The seventh iteration of the Prescription Drug User Fee Amendments (PDUFA VII), included as part of the FDA User Fee Reauthorization Act of 2022, highlights the goals of facilitating timely access to safe, effective, and innovative new medicines for patients. The commitments in the PDUFA Reauthorization Performance Goals and Procedures Fiscal Years 2023 Through 2027 document (available at: <https://www.fda.gov/industry/prescription-drug-user-fee-amendments/pdufa-vii-fiscal-years-2023-2027>) focus on activities to enhance the use of DHTs to support drug development and review, including working with the Digital Health Center of Excellence.

To meet a PDUFA VII commitment, FDA agreed to convene a series of five public workshops with key stakeholders including patients, biopharmaceutical companies, DHT companies, and academia to gather input into issues related to the use of DHTs in regulatory decision-making. The objective of this first workshop is to understand priorities for the development of DHTs to support clinical drug trials, including the potential for DHTs to increase clinical trial accessibility and diversity, as well as the use of DHTs to capture clinical outcome measures. The public workshop scheduled for March 28 and 29, 2023, fulfills the commitment to convene the first of a series of five public workshops by the end of Q2, FY 2023.

II. Topics for Discussion at the Public Workshop

At the public workshop, FDA plans to discuss with stakeholders priorities and challenges for the development of DHTs to support clinical drug trials, including, but not limited to:

- improving participant access, increasing diversity, and facilitating engagement through remote trial-related measurements;
- understanding patient and industry perspectives;
- understanding opportunities for remote data acquisition directly from trial participants; and

- using DHTs to capture clinical outcomes measures.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Drug Price Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act of 1984 (Pub. L. 98–417) and the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Term

Restoration Act (Pub. L. 100–670) generally provide that a patent may be extended for a period of up to 5 years so long as the patented item (human drug or biologic product, animal drug product, medical device, food additive, or color additive) was subject to regulatory review by FDA before the item was marketed. Under these acts, a product’s regulatory review period forms the basis for determining the amount of extension an applicant may receive.

A regulatory review period consists of two periods of time: a testing phase and an approval phase. For human drug products, the testing phase begins when the exemption to permit the clinical investigations of the drug becomes effective and runs until the approval phase begins. The approval phase starts with the initial submission of an application to market the human drug product and continues until FDA grants permission to market the drug product. Although only a portion of a regulatory review period may count toward the actual amount of extension that the Director of USPTO may award (for example, half the testing phase must be subtracted as well as any time that may have occurred before the patent was issued), FDA’s determination of the length of a regulatory review period for a human drug product will include all of the testing phase and approval phase as specified in 35 U.S.C. 156(g)(1)(B).

FDA has approved for marketing the human drug product, DOPTOLET (avatrombopag maleate). DOPTOLET is indicated for the treatment of thrombocytopenia in adult patients with chronic liver disease who are scheduled to undergo a procedure. Subsequent to this approval, the USPTO received a patent term restoration application for DOPTOLET (U.S. Patent No. 7,638,536) from Astellas Pharma Inc., and the USPTO requested FDA’s assistance in determining the patent’s eligibility for patent term restoration. In a letter dated June 21, 2019, FDA advised the USPTO that this human drug product had undergone a regulatory review period and that the approval of DOPTOLET represented the first permitted commercial marketing or use of the product. Thereafter, the USPTO requested that FDA determine the product’s regulatory review period.

II. Determination of Regulatory Review Period

FDA has determined that the applicable regulatory review period for DOPTOLET is 4,632 days. Of this time, 4,389 days occurred during the testing phase of the regulatory review period, while 243 days occurred during the approval phase. These periods of time were derived from the following dates:

1. The date an exemption under section 505(i) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FD&C Act) (21 U.S.C. 355(i)) became effective: September 16, 2005. The applicant claims October 3, 2005, as the date the investigational new drug application (IND) became effective. However, FDA records indicate that the IND effective date was September 16, 2005, which was 30 days after FDA receipt of the IND.

2. The date the application was initially submitted with respect to the human drug product under section 505 of the FD&C Act: September 21, 2017. FDA has verified the applicant’s claim that the new drug application (NDA) for DOPTOLET (NDA 210238) was initially submitted on September 21, 2017.

3. The date the application was approved: May 21, 2018. FDA has verified the applicant’s claim that NDA 210238 was approved on May 21, 2018.

This determination of the regulatory review period establishes the maximum potential length of a patent extension. However, the USPTO applies several statutory limitations in its calculations of the actual period for patent extension. In its application for patent extension, this applicant seeks 1,826 days of patent term extension.

III. Petitions

Anyone with knowledge that any of the dates as published are incorrect may submit either electronic or written comments and, under 21 CFR 60.24, ask for a redetermination (see DATES). Furthermore, as specified in § 60.30 (21 CFR 60.30), any interested person may petition FDA for a determination regarding whether the applicant for extension acted with due diligence during the regulatory review period. To meet its burden, the petition must comply with all the requirements of § 60.30, including but not limited to: must be timely (see DATES), must be filed in accordance with § 10.20, must contain sufficient facts to merit an FDA investigation, and must certify that a true and complete copy of the petition has been served upon the patent applicant. (See H. Rept. 857, part 1, 98th Cong., 2d sess., pp. 41–42, 1984.) Petitions should be in the format specified in 21 CFR 10.30.

Submit petitions electronically to <https://www.regulations.gov> at Docket No. FDA–2013–S–0610. Submit written petitions (two copies are required) to the Dockets Management Staff (HFA–305), Food and Drug Administration, 5630 Fishers Lane, Rm. 1061, Rockville, MD 20852.
