Privacy Act of 1974; System of Records

AGENCY: Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO), Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Rescinding of a system of records notice.

SUMMARY: The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA), Office of the Chief Financial Officer, Office of Technology Solutions is giving notice that it proposes to rescind a system of records pursuant to the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974. The Superfund Cost Recovery Package Imaging and On-Line System (SCORPIOS) system of records (EPA–39) is being rescinded because the e-Recovery system of records (EPA–90) replaces it. EPA is now using the e-Recovery system to organize and produce reports to recover costs associated with its response to releases or threatened releases of hazardous substances, or discharges or threatened discharges of oil.

DATES: EPA stopped maintaining this system of records on May 08, 2023. The e-Recovery system replaced SCORPIOS. The public comment period for the e-Recovery SORN closed on July 12, 2021.

Do not submit information that you consider to be CUI or otherwise protected through <https://www.regulations.gov>. The <https://www.regulations.gov> website is an "anonymous access" system for the EPA, which means the EPA will not know your identity or contact information. If you submit an electronic comment, the EPA recommends that you include your name and other contact information in the body of your comment. If the EPA cannot read your comment due to technical difficulties and cannot contact you for clarification, the EPA may not be able to consider your comment. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: EPA has the authority to recover costs associated with its response to releases or threatened releases of hazardous substances, or discharges or threatened discharges of oil. To support the recovery of certain removal costs associated with threatened or actual discharges of oil, EPA submits a Cost Recovery Package (CRP) to the U.S. Coast Guard (USCG). Previously, EPA used SCORPIOS to prepare the CRP; however, because SCORPIOS uses old technology that has become difficult and expensive for the Agency to maintain, the SCORPIOS system (EPA–39) is replaced with the more modern e-Recovery system (EPA–90). The information previously stored in SCORPIOS is now stored in the e-Recovery system. Information about the e-Recovery system and its system of records notice was published in the Federal Register (86 FR 31,307) on June 11, 2021
