SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Pacific Salmon Treaty and SEAK Salmon Fishery Management

The PST provides a framework for the management of salmon fisheries in the U.S. and Canada and regulates the salmon fisheries that occur in the ocean and inland waters of Oregon, Washington, British Columbia, the Yukon, and southeast Alaska, and the rivers that flow into these waters. The PST established fishing regimes that set upper limits on intercepting fisheries, defined as fisheries in one country that harvest salmon originating in another country, and sometimes include provisions that apply to the management of the Parties' non-intercepting fisheries as well. The overall purpose of the regimes is to accomplish the conservation, production, and harvest allocation objectives set forth in the PST. These objectives are designed to prevent overfishing, provide for each country to benefit from production originating in its water, avoid undue disruption of existing fisheries, and reduce interceptions to the extent practicable.

Each Party to the PST must implement the fisheries management framework domestically. Fisheries in both Federal and state waters off of SEAK are managed consistent with the 2019 PST Agreement. For Federal
