Global Diversity Export Initiative (GDEI) Trade Mission to Panama, Costa Rica and Colombia in Conjunction With the “Opportunities for Women-Owned Businesses in the Americas” Conference—March 10–15, 2024

Summary

The United States Department of Commerce, International Trade Administration (ITA), is organizing a Global Diversity Export Initiative (GDEI) Trade Mission to Panama, Costa Rica, and Colombia from March 10–15, 2024, that will include the “Opportunities for Woman-Owned Businesses in the Americas” Conference in Panama City, Panama on March 10–11, 2024. The mission is horizontal, with various industries and sectors represented and will be based on best prospects and growth potential for U.S. companies in Panama, Costa Rica and Colombia.

Recruitment and consideration will be extended to all export-ready U.S. companies, including small businesses, trade associations and other exporting organizations that meet the established criteria for participation in the mission. In keeping with the U.S. Department of Commerce’s Equity Action Plan, ITA seeks to improve outreach to and representation of businesses with owners and/or leaders from underserved communities, including through the Global Diversity Export Initiative of the U.S. Commercial Service. This mission will expand access to export opportunities to U.S. small and medium-sized businesses, including those founded, led, operated or owned by women from industries with growing potential in Panama, Costa Rica, and Colombia.

This mission is in alignment with Executive Order 13985 on Advancing Racial Equity and Support for Underserved Communities Through the Federal Government (January 25, 2021) (E.O. 13985), Executive Order 14091 on Further Advancing Racial Equity and Support for Underserved Communities Through the Federal Government (February 22, 2022) (E.O. 14091), Executive Order 14020 on the Establishment of the White House Gender Policy Council (March 11, 2021) (E.O. 14020), and the Global Diversity Export Initiative of the U.S. Commercial Service. For the purposes of the trade mission, ITA adopts the definition of “underserved communities” in E.O. 14020, incorporated into E.O. 14091: “populations sharing a particular characteristic, as well as geographic communities, that have been systematically denied a full opportunity to participate in aspects of economic, social, and civic life, as exemplified by the list in the preceding definition of “equity.” “Equity” is defined as “the consistent and systematic fair, just, and impartial treatment of all individuals, including individuals who belong to underserved communities that have been denied such treatment, such as women and girls; Black, Latino, and Indigenous and Native American persons, Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders and other persons of color; members of religious minorities; lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer (LGBTQ+) persons; persons with disabilities; persons who live in rural areas; and persons otherwise adversely affected by persistent poverty or inequality.” This trade mission is also designed to be responsive to the priorities stated by Secretary of Commerce Gina Raimondo and outlined in the Equity Action Plan released in April 2022 which aspires to “harness the talents and strengths of all parts of the country, including women, people of color, and others who are too often left behind” including by “[s]trengthen[ing] small businesses in underserved communities by helping them be successful exporters”.

Women own 12 million businesses in the United States, employing more than 10 million workers.¹ According to the U.S. Small Business Administration (citing the 2018 Census Bureau’s Annual Business Survey, latest data available), women-owned businesses contributed $2.1 trillion in total sales to the U.S. economy and $388 billion in annual payroll. The 2020 Census Bureau’s Annual Business Survey included three top sectors for women-owned employer firms as: (1) healthcare and social assistance (216,000 women-owned employer firms); (2) professional, scientific and technical services (207,000 women-owned employer firms); and (3) retail trade (137,000 women-owned employer firms).²

Despite these promising statistics, women-owned businesses face unique obstacles in accessing overseas markets, including difficulty obtaining financing and lack of knowledge about export opportunities. By including attendance at the “Opportunities for Woman-Owned Businesses in the Americas” Conference in Panama City, Panama on March 10–11, 2024, this mission will assist U.S. small and medium-sized businesses, including those founded, led, operated or owned by women to find partners and begin or expand exports in Panama, Costa Rica and Colombia. Each country benefits from a free trade agreement with the United States.

Trade mission participants will arrive in Panama City, Panama on March 10 to attend the opening reception for the “Opportunities for Woman-Owned Businesses in the Americas” Conference, which is also open to U.S. companies not participating in the trade mission. The Business Conference will focus on regional and industry-specific sessions and will gather experts on market entry strategies, logistics, procurement, trade financing, access to capital, and other important topics to assist women business exporters. The registration fee for the business conference is included in the trade mission costs.

On Sunday, March 10, trade mission participants will participate in one-on-one meetings (U.S. diplomats and/or industry specialists from 15 U.S. Embassies from the region will be available), a trade mission briefing, and a networking reception. On Monday, March 11, participants will engage in the business conference that will include a morning plenary session, a networking lunch, afternoon workshops and one-on-one meetings with key service providers and U.S. diplomats and/or industry specialists, information and material on trade-related resources, and an evening networking reception. On Tuesday, March 12, selected participants will engage in business-to-business (B2B) meetings in Panama City or travel to Costa Rica or Colombia to engage in B2B appointments in those markets. B2B meetings will be conducted with pre-screened potential buyers, agents, distributors or joint-venture partners, in the selected city/stop in Panama, and/or Costa Rica, and/or Colombia. The combination of the “Opportunities for Woman-Owned Businesses in the Americas” Conference and the B2B matchmaking opportunities in Panama, Costa Rica, and Colombia will provide participants with substantive information on strategies for entering or expanding their business in Panama, Costa Rica, and Colombia, key contacts with Commercial Service officers and local staff, and networking opportunities to build vital business relationships.

Best Prospects

The mission is horizontal, with various industries and sectors represented, based on best prospects for U.S. companies in Panama, Costa Rica and Colombia. Best prospect sectors include: Agricultural Products; Automotive Parts, Accessories and Service Equipment; Construction Equipment; Cosmetics; Cybersecurity; Defense & Security; Disposable Medical Supplies; eCommerce; Education; Electric Power and Renewable Energy Systems; Information and Communication Technology (ICT); Infrastructure; Medical Devices and Equipment; Oil and Gas Exploration and Production Equipment; Processed Food and Beverages; Solar Energy Products; and Travel and Tourism.

Other Products and Services

Applications from companies exporting products or services within the scope of this mission, but not specifically identified, will be considered and evaluated by the U.S. Department of Commerce. Companies whose products or services do not fit the scope of the mission may contact their local U.S. Commercial Service office to learn about other business development missions and services that may provide more targeted export opportunities.
