Description

In 1983, human remains representing, at minimum, one individual were removed from Bristol Bay Borough, Naknek River, AK. The human remains were transferred to the Museum of Natural and Cultural History by a former University of Oregon archeologist, who collected them on July 29, 1983. The fragmentary human remains are from a female adult, 30-50 years of age. No associated funerary objects are present.

In 1973 or 1974, human remains representing, at minimum, one individual were removed from Bristol Bay Borough, AK. The human remains (burial Nak2B1; catalog number 11-444)—a male between 30-45 years of age—were collected from the Paugvik Site (49Nak2) during legally authorized archeological excavations by a University of Oregon field party. The 35 associated funerary objects are two shaped bones, two slate flakes, one miniature sled runner, one bone awl, one pick-pryer, one slate scraper, one lot of wood from tomb, one copper box, one rib tool, one lot of grass matting, one skull impression, one potsherd, 11 pieces of hematite, four bark cloth fragments, one lot of hair, one lot of hide fragments, and four lots of mixed hair, matting, hide, cloth, and leather.

In 1973 or 1974, human remains representing, at minimum, one individual were removed from Bristol

Bay Borough, AK. The human remains (burial Nak2B2; catalog number 11–445)—a female between 20–30 years of age—were collected from the Paugvik Site (49Nak2) during legally authorized archeological excavations by a University of Oregon field party. The 26 associated funerary objects are one lot of potsherds, one smoothed rock, two socket pieces, one lot glass beads, one slate blade fragment, two sewn hides, 12 hide fragments, one mukluk, four pieces of leather, and one abrader.

In 1973 or 1974, human remains representing, at minimum, one individual were removed from Bristol Bay Borough, AK. The human remains (burial Nak2B3; catalog number 11–446)—a female between 15–20 years of age—were collected from the Paugvik Site (49Nak2) during legally authorized archeological excavations by a University of Oregon field party. The one associated funerary object is one lot of glass beads.

In 1973 or 1974, human remains representing, at minimum, two individuals were removed from Bristol Bay Borough, AK. The human remains (burial Nak2B4, catalog number 11–447)—one adult male between 30–40 years of age and one individual of indeterminate age and sex—were collected from the Paugvik Site (49Nak2) during legally authorized archeological excavations by a University of Oregon field party. The one associated funerary object is a wooden tray.

In 1973 or 1974, human remains representing, at minimum, one individual were removed from Bristol Bay Borough, AK. The human remains (burial Nak2B5, catalog number 11–448)—an adult male between 30–40 years of age—were collected from the Paugvik Site (49Nak2) during legally authorized archeological excavations by a University of Oregon field party. It is uncertain whether the wooden tray listed for the previous burial is associated with Nak2B4 or Nak2B5.

According to published materials, all burials from the Paugvik Site are assigned to the Pavik Phase, ca. 1800–1900 CE, on the basis of association with European trade goods or stratigraphic context.
