I. Funding Opportunity Description

Statutory Authority

The Indian Health Service (IHS) is accepting applications for grants for Native Public Health Resilience. This program is authorized under the Snyder Act, 25 U.S.C. 13; the Transfer Act, 42 U.S.C. 2001(a); and the American Rescue Plan Act, Public Law 117-2, 135 Stat. 42 (2021). The Assistance Listings section of SAM.gov (<https://sam.gov/content/home>) describes this program under 93.231.

Background

The IHS, an agency within the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), is the principal Federal health care provider and health advocate for American Indian and Alaska Native (AI/AN) people, and its goal is to raise their health status to the highest possible level. One core strategic goal of the IHS is to ensure that comprehensive, culturally appropriate personal and public health services are available and accessible to AI/AN people. The Division of Epidemiology and Disease Prevention (DEDP) provides and supports applied public health and epidemiologic services to further the overall IHS mission. Through the provision of direct services and key partnerships, our collective work strives to improve overall awareness, understanding, and mitigation of priority health conditions negatively impacting AI/AN populations. The American Rescue Plan Act appropriated funding to IHS for purposes that include enhancing public health capacity.

Purpose

The purpose of this program is to enhance Tribes', Tribal organizations', and Urban Indian Organizations' capacity to implement core Public Health functions, services, and activities, and to further develop and improve their Public Health management capabilities.

As part of the IHS mission to raise the physical, mental, social, and spiritual health of American Indians and Alaska Natives to the highest level, this program seeks to build on and strengthen community resilience by supporting wider access to the 10 Essential Public Health Services (EPHS)¹ in Indian Country, a framework designed to offer all people a fair and just opportunity to achieve optimal health and well-being. For more information on the EPHS, please visit <https://www.cdc.gov/publichealthgateway/publichealthservices/essentialhealthservices.html>. The framework of the EPHS has served as a guide to the public health field since 1994 and describes the public health activities that all communities should undertake, including, (1) monitor health status to identify and solve community health problems, and (2) Diagnose and investigate health problems and health hazards in the community. The EPHS framework was revised in 2020 with an emphasis on equity and reflects current and future priorities for public health practice. The EPHS have been included in the HHS Healthy People initiatives since 2010, when the initiative first included a focus area of Public Health Infrastructure with the goal to "ensure that Federal, Tribal, State, and local health agencies have the infrastructure to provide essential public health services effectively."

The IHS is offering competitive awards to assist applicants in enhancing EPHS implementation within established public health programs serving AI/AN communities.

The 10 EPHS include:

1. Assess and monitor population health status, factors that influence health, and community needs and assets.
2. Investigate, diagnose, and address health problems and hazards affecting the population.
3. Communicate effectively to inform and educate people about health, factors that influence it, and how to improve it.
4. Strengthen, support, and mobilize communities and partnerships to improve health.
5. Create, champion, and implement policies, plans, and laws that impact health.
6. Use legal and regulatory actions designed to improve and protect the public's health.
7. Contribute to an effective system that enables equitable access to the individual services and care needed to be healthy. This Service description has been adapted to better align with the anticipated scope of intended recipient jurisdictions.
8. Build and support a diverse and skilled public health workforce.
9. Improve and innovate public health functions through ongoing evaluation, research, and continuous quality improvement.
10. Build and maintain a strong organizational infrastructure for public health.

Required and Allowable Activities

The following activities are required under this funding announcement. For more guidance on the proposal requirements, please see Project Narrative, below.

Required Activities

Select and implement one or more new EPHS or implement significant expansion of existing EPHS to support Tribal communities throughout the planned project period. Recipients are required to offer new or expanded EPHS activities through the award's period of performance. Applicants must address at least two core elements of their selected EPHS in their proposal, as described below.

EPHS 1: Assess and monitor population health status, factors that influence health, and community needs and assets.

Core elements:

- a. Maintaining an ongoing understanding of health in the jurisdiction by collecting, monitoring, and analyzing data on health and factors that influence health to identify threats,
