In an earlier decision, the Court made findings on the collateral source issues and then set forth its dollar-amount findings on a chart. There were a few debt-based costs that had not been calculated, and the Court noted in its chart that the figures needed “to be computed.” The Court directed plaintiffs to provide those calculations. They have now done so through the Affidavit of Cornelius Hofman, and the defendants filed no objections thereto. The Court will therefore adopt those figures, and provide a complete chart of the collateral source offsets below.
