H. CON. RES. 321

Supporting the efforts of the United Nations to formulate a comprehensive convention on international terrorism and urging the President to continue to work in cooperation with all interested members of the United Nations to formulate such a convention.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

FEBRUARY 7, 2002

Mr. MEEKS of New York submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on International Relations

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

Supporting the efforts of the United Nations to formulate a comprehensive convention on international terrorism and urging the President to continue to work in cooperation with all interested members of the United Nations to formulate such a convention.

Whereas the elimination of international terrorism requires international cooperation;

Whereas the United Nations is in the process of formulating a comprehensive convention on international terrorism based on a global consensus definition of terrorism and an agreement among member states not to assist, support, or facilitate terrorist activities or harbor terrorist organizations; and

Whereas the terrorist attacks against the United States that occurred on September 11, 2001, demonstrate the need for a comprehensive convention on international terrorism: Now, therefore, be it

1        Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate
2 concurring), That Congress—

3            (1) supports the efforts of the United Nations
4            to formulate a comprehensive convention on inter-
5            national terrorism; and

6            (2) urges the President to continue to work in
7            cooperation with all interested members of the 8            United Nations to formulate such a convention.
