

(9) The WHO Director-General further commented, "As far as WHO is concerned all hypotheses remain on the table . . . We have not yet found the source of the virus, and we must continue to follow the science and leave no stone unturned as we do . . . It is clear that we need more research across a range of areas, which will entail further field visits."

(10) The March 30, 2021 Joint Statement on the WHO-convened COVID-19 Origins Study by the United States and 13 other countries recognized the severe shortcomings of the joint-study process and called for "a transparent and independent analysis and evaluation, free from interference and undue influence."

(11) In spite of the devastation the COVID-19 pandemic has caused in the United States and around the world, no process currently exists to ensure a comprehensive investigation into the origins of COVID-19.

(12) Such an investigation is essential for ensuring this type of crisis never happens again for the benefit of all people, all nations, and future generations.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) a comprehensive scientific and forensic investigation to determine the origins of COVID-19 must be conducted immediately, with full and unrestricted access to all relevant records, samples, and personnel, particularly in China, and that such investigation must fully explore all possible origins of the COVID-19 pandemic, including an exclusively "natural" zoonosis in the wild, human contamination in an animal farm, and a research-related accident;

(2) the United States delegation to the World Health Assembly should do everything in its power, in concert with allies and partners around the world, to ensure that a full and unrestricted international scientific and forensic investigation into the origins of COVID-19, with full access to all relevant records, samples, and personnel in China, will be authorized by the World Health Assembly and implemented with extreme urgency; and

(3) if the Chinese government does not, by the end of the 2021 World Health Assembly, indicate its full support for a comprehensive investigation to determine the origins of COVID-19 with unrestricted access to all relevant records, samples, and personnel in China, then the United States Government should immediately begin planning a parallel comprehensive and data-driven investigation into the origins of COVID-19, in concert with willing partner governments and experts around the world.
