STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. REED (for himself, Mr. BROWN, Mr. WYDEN, and Ms. SMITH):

S. 5342. A bill to provide requirements for the bulk auction or group sale of certain non-performing loans, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, today I am introducing the Preserving Homes and Communities Act with Senator Brown, Senator Wyden, and Senator Smith. This legislation would reform Federal Housing Administration, FHA, Fannie Mae, and Freddie Mac note sale programs to protect homeowners from foreclosure and keep properties in the hands of owner-occupants and local community members.

In the wake of the Great Recession, FHA, Fannie Mae, and Freddie Mac began selling nonperforming and reperforming loans to strengthen their balance sheets. These transactions, known as note sales, transfer mortgage ownership to bulk purchasers, which are often private equity firms or institutional investors that can move homes to the single-family rental market. While note sales reduce financial risk for FHA, Fannie Mae, and Freddie Mac and help purchasers earn a profit, they often directly harm homeowners and communities.

Borrowers with loans insured by FHA or securitized by Fannie Mae or Freddie Mac have strong foreclosure protections because mortgage servicers must offer specific loss mitigation options to eligible borrowers before they can begin foreclosure proceedings. These robust protections help many delinquent homeowners catch up on mortgage payments and avoid foreclosure, but they drastically shrink when a mortgage is included in a note sale.

It is not surprising that over 80 percent of homeowners whose nonperforming loans were sold by FHA ultimately lost their homes after their new servicers reached a final loan resolution. Moreover, the U.S. Government Accountability Office has found that nonperforming loans sold by FHA are more likely to face foreclosure than comparable loans that FHA keeps on its balance sheet. The majority of homeowners with nonperforming loans sold by Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac have also lost their homes after servicers reached a final resolution. The data is overwhelming: note sales do not help most borrowers remain in their homes.

Compounding matters, note sale purchasers, which again are predominately private equity firms and institutional investors, often move foreclosed properties out of the owner-occupied market. In fact, Pretium, one of the Nation's largest owners of single-family rental homes, is the third largest purchaser of Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac nonperforming loans in note sales. As a result, approximately one-third of properties foreclosed upon after a Fannie Mae or Freddie Mac nonperforming loan note sale are sold to an investor, held by the purchaser for rental, or become real estate owned—leaving fewer affordable owner-occupied homes in the market and shifting property ownership away from local control.

The Preserving Homes and Communities Act tackles these problems. First, it would require mortgage servicers to complete FHA or Federal Housing Finance Agency-required loss mitigation actions before FHA, Fannie Mae, or Freddie Mac includes a nonperforming mortgage in a note sale. Second, it would extend protections to these mortgages after they are acquired by purchasers in a note sale. Third, it would require FHA, Fannie Mae, and Freddie Mac to give local entities with public missions, including States, municipalities, and nonprofits, the first opportunity to purchase nonperforming mortgages—ahead of private equity and institutional investors. Finally, it would require purchasers that foreclose on nonperforming note sale properties to make at least 75 percent these properties available to owner-occupants or low- and moderate-income renters. In sum, our legislation seeks to keep homeowners in their homes, keep home ownership within local communities, and preserve the supply of available and affordable homes for families.

I thank the National Consumer Law Center, on behalf of its low-income client, and the National Community Stabilization Trust for their support. I urge my colleagues to cosponsor this legislation and support its passage.
