HONORING ANDREW GROSETA

(Mr. GOSAR asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GOSAR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of my dear friend, Andrew Groseta. Today, Andrew needs our prayers, and I ask the Lord's healing hands land upon him.

Andrew Groseta is a third-generation rancher from Cottonwood, Arizona. He and his family have been ranching in the Verde Valley along the Verde River in Arizona since 1922.

Ranching and raising beef are more than just a business. It is a way of life for Andrew. He is a member of the Arizona 4-H Hall of Fame and a past Arizona Agriculturist of the Year.

As the former president of the Arizona Cattle Growers' Association and the past president of the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, Andrew Groseta has been the voice and brains of the cattle industry for decades.

Andrew has dedicated his entire life, time, and energy to mentoring young people interested in the field of agriculture while simultaneously leading the effort to ensure Arizona's cattle industry thrives in the face of many challenges. He has always been a great steward and emphasized the importance of being a good steward of our land.

Over the years, if I ever had a question about water conservation, forest and land management, food safety, or anything related to ranching, Andrew Groseta was the first person I would seek to call for advice.

It is often said the best people in the world are in the cattle business, but none are better than Andrew Groseta. I am very proud and blessed to know Andrew and Mary Beth, his wife, and to call them my friends.

Mr. Speaker, it is my high honor to recognize Andrew Groseta today. God bless my friend, Andrew Groseta.

HONORING RAHUL CHOPRA

(Ms. DELBENE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. DELBENE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life a Rahul Chopra, a member of our Democrat family who tragically passed away on March 11. Rahul was kind, caring, and a constant source of optimism.

Growing up in California, his interest in politics started from an early age and never wavered, turning what was at first a passion into a profession.

Whether working for Senator MARK KELLY, or any one of many Democratic partner groups and committees over the years, Rahul was determined to build a career that would make the world a fairer and more just place.

What was especially inspiring about him was the pure exuberance he took in being a mentor to the members of his team, often coupled with an irreverent sense of humor and kind word.

Rahul will be remembered for his signature laugh, encyclopedic knowledge, and a generosity of spirit that was incandescent.

Survived by his parents and brother, he will be missed terribly by us all.

HONORING GEORGE LEWIS "BUD" DYER

(Mr. CARTER of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CARTER of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of George Lewis "Bud" Dyer. Bud passed away on Easter Sunday, surrounded by his loved ones.

Born in 1939 in Daytona Beach, Florida, Bud's life of service began when he joined the Navy in 1961. After his military service ended in 1969, Bud earned a degree from Florida State University.

Bud and his wife, Woodie, moved their children to Young Harris, Georgia, where Bud served as admissions director for Young Harris College for over 30 years. Bud also was a decades-long, trusted adviser to the college president and the Kappa Tau Omega fraternity.

So known and loved by the entire Young Harris community, he was widely referred to as "Uncle Bud" on campus.

Beyond his remarkable career, Bud also served the community as the first fire chief of the Young Harris Volunteer Fire Department for over 20 years.

Bud was a dedicated member of Sharp Memorial United Methodist Church where he faithfully took on a variety of roles.

My thoughts and prayers go out to his wife, Woodie, his 4 children, and 10 grandchildren.

HONORING ELIZABETH GOMEZ

(Ms. KAMLAGER-DOVE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. KAMLAGER-DOVE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor my constituent Elizabeth Gomez. Elizabeth is a community advocate driven to effect positive change within underserved communities.

As a cofounder of the Integrated Community Collaborative, a coalition of parents and self-advocates fighting for individuals and families with intellectual and developmental disabilities, Elizabeth established the Community Outreach Integradoras program to address disparities and inequities facing neurodiverse individuals, like her 17-year-old son, Oscar, who has Down syndrome, within California's support systems.

Elizabeth also serves on the Local Advisory Committee on Self-Determination for Westside Regional Center and previously served on the board of Disability Rights California.

As we celebrate Autism Acceptance Month, please join me in thanking Elizabeth for her tireless advocacy to strengthen accessibility and inclusion in our community.

MONTH OF THE MILITARY CHILD

(Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize April as the Month of the Military Child. This month, we focus on the children whose parents are defending our freedom at home and abroad.

These children are resilient. These children have courage. These children have strength. While they wake up, go to school, complete their homework, and participate in after-school activities like other children, they are also missing their mom or dad who may be deployed or away for training, yet they keep going.

Mr. Speaker, military children's strength and sacrifice does not go unnoticed. That is why, for the entire month of April, we raise awareness and give special recognition to military children.

Military children, youth, and teens deal with difficult emotions as they face concerns of their parents' safety along with a strong sense of pride for their parents' service.

Mr. Speaker, we must recognize the service and sacrifice our military children face. We thank them for their service, for their sacrifice, and for their bravery.

NATIONAL DAY OF SILENCE

(Mr. PANETTA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PANETTA. Mr. Speaker, I rise to once again recognize the National Day of Silence, a day when students and allies, especially in California's 19th Congressional District, speak up for the LGBTQ community by taking a vow of silence. By remaining silent for an entire day, they are highlighting the many challenges faced by our LGBTQ youth.

One student who is taking part is Sion from Delta High School in Aptos, California. Sion told me that one's statement doesn't have to be loud to be impactful. Instead, the National Day of Silence is powerful because it highlights not only the difficulties in discrimination but also the resiliency and solidarity of the LGBTQ community.

Sion believes that this day proves that yelling and outrage are not necessarily the only way to be heard and reminds us and reinforces our shared dreams of a world where love knows no bounds.

Mr. Speaker, I commend Sion and others for taking part in the National Day of Silence. Their willingness to be quiet for one day recognizes all of those with the will to speak up every day for the LGBTQ community.

MAKING FORESTS SAFER

(Mr. LAMALFA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LAMALFA. Mr. Speaker, we will soon be heading into fire season, unfortunately, in the West. What does that mean? Each year, hundreds of thousands, even millions, of acres of forestland are lost due to wildfire due to the nonmanagement of these lands.

The U.S. Forest Service needs to increase its pace and scale dramatically to get the work done out there that will make a forest safer and also use the product that we grow in this country. Since China is now buying a little less materials these days, the U.S. has gone from number two to number one as a wood importer.

Why in the heck are we importing wood products when we have the timber in our Western lands, which we have to instead watch burn year after year?

We could be putting jobs back in this country in these rural communities that have been boarded up in so many cases.

We are losing lumber mills every day because the Forest Service is not acting quickly enough or with the pace and scale that needs to be done. We need to have the jobs and harvest here and the healthy forests and much less wildfire that comes with all that.

It is a win-win-win. Let's get to work.

NCAA WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

(Ms. KAPTUR asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, this past weekend, Cleveland, Ohio, hosted the NCAA women's basketball Final Four. Americans and people around the globe were focused on the impressive talents of Caitlin Clark. As Iowa Hawkeyes matched up with defending champions LSU and undefeated champion University of South Carolina, something fantastic happened along the way.

Yes, this story just gets better. For the first time in NCAA tournament history, the women's championship game had higher viewership than the men's championship game. Sunday's women's championship had 18,870,000
